Keating Wins in Lake George Race

New York Swimming Instructor Finishes 24 Mile Swim in About 18 Hours—Two Other Swimmers Survive.

Lake George, N. Y., July 13 (AP).—Edward F. Keating, New York swimming instructor, won the 24 mile swimming marathon from Hague to this village at 4:34 o'clock this morning, daylight saving time.

Keating set an even stroke, a long overhand crawl, from the moment he left the beach at Hague yesterday morning. He found his strongest opposition in Ernest Vierkotter, German conqueror of the English Channel, who set a torrid pace. The German led through the first 11 miles of tricky currents and cold waters of the inland basin sunk in the Adirondack hills. At that point, however, Keating, a newcomer to distance swimming competition, swept into the lead with his easy tireless stroke and held it throughout the remainder of the race. Vierkotter was obliged to quit the race early this morning when about eight miles from shore and two miles in Keating's wake, when he suffered stomach cramps.

Keating's official time for the 24 miles was 18 hours, 47 minutes and 18 seconds. The only other survivors in the race were Walter Erickson and Paul Choteau, both of New York. Erickson was about nine miles from the finish and Choteau was about 11 miles away.

Lottie Schoemmel and Lucy Diamond, of Brooklyn, strongest of the women entries, were taken from the water exhausted shortly after Keating reached his goal. Both required medical attention but were quickly revived. Vierkotter withdrew from cramps, and Jane Sion was disqualified for accepting a tow from her pilot boat.

Keating is a swimming instructor for the board of education of New York city and for several years was a lifeguard at Sheephead Bay Beach. He holds several medals for bravery in the saving of life. He is unmarried.

Keating declared that his race had been mostly with Vierkotter and had been planned for him. "I knew that Vierkotter was the man who had to be beaten so I planned my race with that in mind. For that reason I began slowly and raised the stroke gradually. Once I passed him, I knew I had the race. But my hat is off to Vierkotter. The boys who have been down the lake know what a real grind it is."

ASK RECEIVERSHIP FOR TWO HOLLYWOOD COMPANIES.

Miami, Fla., July 13 (AP).—Three suits totalling almost $2,000,000 in claims have been filed in United States District Courts here and in Jacksonville by the Highway Construction Company, Inc., of Ohio, asking receivership for two companies which played major parts in the development of the city of Hollywood, famous Florida boom resort near here.

Joseph W. Young, founder and developer of Hollywood, is president of both companies named and is himself named as defendant in the suits, which are for balance due on sidewalk and street paving construction completed, and for profits lost when contracted construction was ordered stopped early this year. The companies for which receiverships were asked are Homebuilders' Realty Company of Hollywood and the Hollywood Land and Water Company.

STATE TROOPERS FREED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Flemington, N. J., July 13 (AP).—In the fourth of the trials of the members of state police growing out of the seizure of the Meany farm house at Jutland by State Troopers last December, four members of the organization were acquitted of a charge of larceny yesterday.

The jury which considered the case against Lieutenant Daniel F. Rogers, Sergeant Thomas Cunningham, Corporal Matthew Daly and Trooper Joseph Camp, was out for 12 hours and 43 minutes. Rogers has been convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Miss Beatrice Meany, daughter of a wealthy family, and Trooper Alfred R. Larson, of assault and battery on the other three cases heard.

LITIGATING CREDITORS' ACCORD

PORTY CENT SETTLEMENT.

New York, July 13 (AP).—Litigation which has kept Mrs. Ella De Costa Lydie, former wife of the late N. E. D. Stokes, before the bankruptcy court for the past few months, ended a close today when her attorneys announced that all but three of her creditors had accepted forty cents on each dollar she owed.

The original list of forty-two creditors, with claims totalling $34,000, had been reduced by withdrawals to thirty-two, attorneys for Mrs. Lydie said. Twenty-nine of the remaining thirty-two have accepted the forty per cent settlement.

Ballots May Be Destroyed

Reed May Avert Destruction of Delaware County Ballots By An Appeal to the Supreme Court.

Philadelphia, July 13 (AP).—The Delaware county ballots cast in last fall's election, which are sought by the Senate Special Investigating Committee for examination in the Varg-Wilson senatorial contest, will be destroyed on the eve of the next election, on September 20, unless a legal restraining order is imposed, William Ward, Jr., prothonotary of the county courts, announced today. This is a legal procedure under Pennsylvania laws.

Mr. Ward's announcement followed the ruling yesterday of United States District Judge J. Whitaker Thompson that he was without jurisdiction to authorize the seizure of the ballot boxes by the senate committee, of which Senator Reed of Missouri, is chairman, and that the question of the existence of the committee was one for the senate itself to decide.

Senator Reed of Atlanta, Ga., said it may be possible to avert destruction of the ballots by an appeal to the supreme court. That body, however, is in recess until October.

"Senator Reed also said that when Congress convenes the committee will receive such authority, as it may need, both from the House and the Senate," he added. The investigation would continue despite the latest court decision.

Judge Grants 'Change of Venue'

When He Is Unable To Find Men Willing To Inflict Death Penalty on Woman Facing Charge of Robbery With Firearms.

San Marcos, Tex., July 13 (AP).—Inability to find men willing to inflict the death penalty on a woman facing a charge of robbery with firearms, has enabled Rebecca Bradley Rogers, 24 year old Texas University graduate, to obtain a change of venue in the first case under the Texas law fixing capital punishment as the maximum penalty for such offenses.

Called to trial here yesterday on a charge of robbing the Farmers' National Bank of Buda, Texas, Mrs. Rogers watched the state examine 19 prospective men jurors. All were dismissed when they declared they would hesitate to inflict the death penalty. Women do not sit on juries in Texas.

Judge M. C. Jeffrey then granted a change of venue to Fayette county. The case was set for December 5. Mrs. Rogers was released on bond. District Attorney Fred Blundell said that while he did not necessarily plan to ask the death penalty, he wished to determine the attitude of jurors toward feminine offenders.

No Taxi Stand At West Shore

Former Stand Abolished by Railroad Authorities and Arrest of Taxi Drivers Follows for Failure to Obey Taxi Ordinance

The West Shore railroad authorities recently abolished the taxi stand at the station on Railroad avenue, and as a result taxi drivers must comply with the provisions of the taxi ordinance which requires every taxi driver to stand within five feet of his cab while soliciting passengers.

Tuesday two taxi drivers, Bernard Alcon and Claude Markle were arrested by Officer Tierney of the West Shore police force, who charged them with violating the ordinance. This morning Markle pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence and the warning that hereafter the taxi ordinance must be complied with.

Alcon, through his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan, entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to July 20.

Decide to Hold Plenary Session

In Order That Assurance Be Given Negotiations Are Continuing in the Friendliest Manner—Americans Against Bilateral Convention.

Geneva, July 13 (AP).—Delegates to the Tri-Partite Naval Conference today decided to convene a plenary session tomorrow at 3 p. m. The session was arranged, it was learned in order that assurance can be given that the negotiations are continuing in the friendliest manner.

Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation, probably will pay tribute to Kevin O'Higgins, Irish Free State minister, who was assassinated on Sunday.

The atmosphere at Geneva today was most friendly although a meeting, which was held today did not result in any agreement on the cruiser problem, the Japanese insisting that they must have real limitation.

Today's meeting was at the home of H. B. Butler, assistant director of the international labor bureau in order to take up the problems confronting the conference. Their chief interest centered on the question of cruisers and Japan's announced intention to sign no treaty which involves the expansion of the Japanese navy.

In the meantime the Japanese suggestion that the United States and Great Britain negotiate a treaty between themselves has awakened no enthusiasm in American circles.

First of all, a treaty making 400,000 tons as the limit of cruiser strength of Great Britain and the United States is not to the liking of the American delegates because it means expansion of the American navy. Even if it were accepted as a compromise, it is believed that any bilateral convention would not achieve the objects for which the conference was originally convened.

NEWSPAPER ACCOUNTS REUNITE DECKER FAMILY.

New York, July 13 (AP).—The family of Edward Decker, boatman at the Hoboken pier, which became separated in the shuffle of New York's millions ten weeks ago, is reunited today, thanks to the newspapers.

Decker's wife moved from Poughkeepsie May 1 with their four year old child; to join her mother in Brooklyn, where her husband was to meet her. She found her mother had moved, no one knew where. She did not know where her husband worked. Decker, going to the Brooklyn address, missed his family and could not learn where they had gone.

After many weeks of search through New York and New Jersey, Decker informed the newspapers of his curious plight, which in turn told the public about it. Hearing of the newspaper accounts, Mrs. Decker, who had found employment at Coney Island, went to the Hoboken pier and there found her husband.

Towns in Holy Land Present Awful Spectacle

Some Estimates of Dead In Quake Placed at 1,000—No Americans or Europeans Among Victims—Searches Bring Many Pathetic Scenes.

Jerusalem, July 13 (AP).—Nabius, ancient Samaritan centre, 20 miles north of Jerusalem, and other towns in the Holy Land appear like cities of the dead, say reports which reached Jerusalem today of the disastrous earthquake that rocked the region Monday afternoon.

Latest official estimates of the casualties place the dead in Palestine at more than 150 and in trans-Jordan at 100.

The total injured is given as more than 500. Unofficial figures are much higher, some estimates of the dead touching 1,000. Up to the present no Americans or Europeans have been reported among the victims.

Details from many of the affected districts were still awaited, but the story of the fate of Nabius says it presents an awful spectacle of destruction. Scarcely a house in the old part of the town escaped. Some collapsed entirely, while others seem to be held together by a miracle.

Streets usually busy are deserted save for occasional cowed figures salvaging bedding on the back of camels or donkeys to take to impoverished camps outside the town, where the inhabitants are collected in pathetic groups. Some times a long wailing procession passes with a rude coffin at the head—the latest harvest of some digging party.

The work of exhumation is progressing steadily under the direction of the British police. At one place, where it is estimated forty persons are buried under the debris, the search has been given up owing to the unsafe condition of surrounding buildings. The searches have brought many pathetic scenes, showing by the postures of the dead how suddenly death overtook them.

Took Club from Officer; Fined

Abram Ginsberg Found It Cost Him $25 to Assault a Special Policeman at Hasbrouck Park—Trouble Started Over Fake Firecracker.

After a lengthy trial before Judge Shufeldt in police court this morning Abram Ginsberg of West Union street was found guilty of assaulting Special Officer Marion Beardsley at Hasbrouck Park on the Fourth of July and was fined $25. Ginsberg was represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan while Corporation Counsel Harry H. Flemming appeared for Beardsley.

From the story as told in court Beardsley was on duty at the park on the holiday and a church picnic was being held on the grounds when Ginsberg appeared carrying a huge firecracker, which later turned out to be a fake.

Women with children became frightened as Ginsberg went through the motions of setting off the firecracker and appealed to Officer Beardsley to stop Ginsberg from discharging it.

In the argument that followed Ginsberg took Beardsley's club away from him and struck him in the face. Ginsberg only submitted to arrest when Beardsley pulled his gun.

Schermerhorn took the little girl to the Kingston City Hospital where it was stated this afternoon that she was resting as comfortably as could be expected. She was bruised about the body and head, but an X-ray taken this morning showed that her skull was not fractured.

In reporting the accident to the sheriff's office Schermerhorn said that he was not driving fast at the time and that the little girl alighted from another car and stepped directly in front of his car.

The car Schermerhorn was driving is owned by Peter Kearney of Cedar street.

ARREST FOLLOWED BROADWAY AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Following a collision Tuesday between the automobiles of William C. Douglas and John McGuire, near No. 120 Broadway, in which both cars were damaged, McGuire arrested Douglas, who lives in Connelly, charging him with operating a car without a license. This morning in police court Mr. Douglas produced the necessary papers. He explained he had been to a funeral Tuesday and left the papers in his other clothes. He also said the accident was due to McGuire trying to turn his car around in the center of the block. Judge Shufeldt discharged Mr. Douglas.

American Airmen Aboard Leviathan

Chamberlin Greets Commander Byrd and Companions Aboard Steamer at Cherbourg—Will Land in New York Next Monday.

Cherbourg, France, July 13 (AP).—Cherbourg and the Normandy coast of France settled down to normalcy today, now that the distinguished visitors—Commander Byrd and his three transatlantic flight comrades—have sailed for home.

After three days of sightseeing and acclaim in the vicinity of Vers-sur-Mer, where they made their single landing less than two weeks ago completing their flight across the ocean, the airmen departed on the Leviathan last night.

As the four men, accompanied by H. A. Gibbons, representative of Rodman Wanamaker, sponsor of the flight, went aboard the steamer the passengers gave them an enthusiastic welcome. Among the first to greet them was Clarence D. Chamberlin, who preceded them in a transatlantic air voyage, flying from New York to Germany. He is travelling to the United States on the same steamer.

The dissembled America is aboard the Leviathan in ten cases. The long single wing is in a box 75 feet long, 13 feet wide and 3 feet high. The steamer was held up for more than an hour until it could be taken aboard. Previously the motors, in 3 boxes and the fuselage had been stowed away.

Coolidges Will Attend Picnic

Over 10,000 Farmers Are Expected at Tri-State Farmers' Picnic at Ardmore, S. D.—President to Investigate "Dry Farming."

Rapid City, S. D., July 13 (AP).—A dozen towns in Wyoming, Nebraska and South Dakota have proclaimed next Saturday a holiday for the tri-State Farmers' picnic at Ardmore, S. D., which will be attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

More than 10,000 farmers from the three states, it is estimated, will attend. The President and Mrs. Coolidge will board a special train at Custer, S. D., about fifty miles from Rapid City, and are scheduled to arrive in Ardmore around noon. Whether the distinguished Black Hills visitors will eat out of baskets the same as other picnicers has not been determined, but if Mr. Coolidge follows his program of the Belle Fourche trip there will be a dining car attached to his train.

The President is especially anxious to investigate the government station at Ardmore which is experimenting in "dry farming." His trip includes a tour of the stables as well as of the land where dry farming crops are under cultivation.

Malvin Unable to Recall Accident

Reuben Malvin, who was injured in an automobile accident near Highland several days ago and has been in a serious condition at the Kingston City Hospital, has recovered consciousness. Malvin, who had been given a lift by Stephen DeGardina, was injured when the DeGardina car struck a tree on a turn. DeGardina was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and held pending the outcome of Malvin's injuries. Although Malvin has gained consciousness and is able to talk he can remember nothing of the accident. State Trooper Baker who arrested DeGardina after the accident has questioned Malvin in regard to the accident but has been unable to secure any information. An effort by District Attorney Traver to secure a statement has failed as Malvin is unable to recall the accident or any of the details. It is expected that Malvin will eventually recover although for a time it was doubtful if he would survive the severe fracture of the skull which he received.

Lee Asserts His Innocence

Man Accused of Brooklyn's Double Ax Murder, Pleads Not Guilty—Will Appoint an Attorney If Janitor Is Indicted.

New York, July 13 (AP).—Virtually abandoning their efforts to obtain a confession, police today continued to weave a web of circumstantial evidence about Ludwig Halvorsen Lee, 38, sailor-janitor, held as Brooklyn's double ax murderer.

Having formally pleaded not guilty on arraignment in homicide court yesterday, Lee, after 36 hours' grilling, was adamant in his continued denial of any connection with or knowledge of the deaths of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 65-year-old seamstress and Mrs. Alfred Bennett, 56, mother of four children.

An examination of the battered head of the aged spinster disclosed that she was mired among the hairs. Police had obtained from Lee a statement that he had bought quantities of the chemical for cleaning the cellar drain of the Prospect street murder house, where he resided and acted as janitor.

Otto Neilson, a cement mason and one of two friends of Lee held as material witnesses, said Lee had talked to him over the phone one hour after the time fixed by police as that of Mrs. Bennett's death. Neilson said Lee asked him to come over to the Prospect street house and when he arrived, Lee opened the door and then went to the cellar. He said he did not follow because the cellar appeared flooded.

The accused man stood before a magistrate and said: "Everything they say about me is lying."

"Do you want a lawyer?" he was asked. "Will you give me a lawyer?" he queried in reply.

It was announced an attorney would be appointed if Lee was indicted.

FIRST MARRIAGE MUST BE GIVEN PRECEDENCE

Chicago, July 13 (AP).—The obligation of a first marriage constitutes a first lien on a man's earnings and the second marriage can only be considered in the nature of a second mortgage until the alimony payments of the first are completed, Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis ruled in freeing Orland F. Blake, member of the Cook county jail anti-alimony club.

Blake's wife, Mrs. Catherine M. Blake, is suing him for separate maintenance and had him committed to jail when he failed to pay her temporary alimony. Blake told the court that he had a job but could not work at it because his wife insisted on keeping him in jail. Even if he did work, he said, he could only make enough money to support his two children by a previous marriage.

Judge Lewis ruled that he be allowed to work and submit to the court a record of his earnings, the payments resulting from the first marriage must be given precedence over the second, the court said.

INVESTIGATE WHOLESAL BLACKMAILING OF CATHOLICS.

Mexico City, July 13 (AP).—On orders of President Calles, the attorney general is conducting a widespread investigation into the wholesale blackmailing of Catholic residents. It is charged that persons representing themselves as police officials demanded fines from citizens for having conducted secret religious ceremonies in their homes in violation of the religious law, threatening to punish them if the money was not forthcoming.

Colonel Antonio Avila, chief of the judicial military police, is under arrest, the president having issued instructions that he be held pending an investigation into the allegation that he and five of his assistants forced money from Catholics or closed their eyes while police or persons posing as police did so. The assistants, whose arrest was also ordered, are reported to have fled.

Annual Reunion Of 51st Pioneers

Will be Held in Poughkeepsie Saturday August 27—Formulate Plans For Biggest and Best Reunion.

Members of the 51st Pioneer Infantry in this city have received from headquarters of the regimental reunion committee at Poughkeepsie, Special Order No. 1, announcing the fourth annual reunion of the association which will be held in Poughkeepsie on Saturday, August 27. Any man who served in the 10th N. Y. Infantry or the 51st Pioneer Infantry between July 16, 1917, and July 12, 1919, the first date when the regiment assembled in answer to the call of the President of the United States and the latter one when the members were mustered out by reason of services no longer required, is eligible to attend the reunions. This year also marks the tenth anniversary of the entrance of the regiment into the World War.

Plans are being formulated to make this the biggest and best reunion yet held by the association and on account of its being in about the central part of the Hudson River Valley, a large turnout is expected. The business session will be held in the state armory, corner Market and Church streets, at 11 a. m., at which time officers will be elected and such business as may come before the meeting will be transacted. A lunch will be served in the armory mess hall. After the business session the big feed will take place. It will be a clambake with everything that goes to make it a success. It will be held just outside the city in the wide open spaces with plenty of room to run about to help make the clams digest.

Arrangements are being made to entertain the women folks if any veteran would like to bring his wife or lady friend. Through the courtesy of Lafayette Post of the American Legion, the Veterans' Home will be open for the ladies who expect to attend.

It is impossible to get a mailing list of all those who served with the outfit and no doubt there will be some who will not receive a notice of the reunion, through the fault of no one. Anyone who does not receive a notice and who cares to attend should send a card to Charles Vossler, State Armory, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., stating his intention of attending. Those who do receive notices are requested to mail back to the committee the return card so they can get an idea of how many to make plans for at the bake.

CORNS

Instant Relief

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop all pain quicker than any other known method. Takes but a minute to quiet the worst corn. Healing starts at once. When the corn is gone it never comes back. If new sores make the spot "touchy" again, a Zino-pad stops it instantly. That's because Zino-pads remove the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are medicated, antiseptic, and soothing. At all druggists and shoe dealers.

Truth at Any Price

"Each man should learn what is within him, that he may strive to mend; he must be taught what is without him, that he may be kind to others. It can never be wrong to tell him the truth; for, in his disputable state, weaving as he goes his theory of life, steering himself, cheering or reproving others, all facts are of the first importance to his conduct; and even if a fact shall discourage or corrupt him it is still best that he should know it, for it is in this world as it is, and not in a world made easy by educational suppression, that he must win his way to shame or glory."—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Wall Foretells Weather

In eastern Oregon is an interesting well that not only gives supplies of good water but acts as a sort of barometer to tell the approach of storms or changes in the weather. From 12 to 24 hours before a storm, it "exhales" a current of air. The draft increases as the storm approaches, sometimes reaching the intensity of a whistling, roaring jet and shooting up a mist of water with it.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Kiss in History

Kisses between men were common in England until the Seventeenth century. Medieval knights used to kiss each other before they began jousting, as modern heavyweights shake hands. Pages in France used to kiss articles they were given to deliver, both when they received them from the hands of senders and just before they delivered them to recipients, as a sign of honor.

Geological Wonder

Juniper mountain, 30 miles west of Craig, Colo., is a geological wonder. The United States survey says that it is the deepest mountain on the western hemisphere. This means that the bottom of Juniper is buried in the earth deeper than any other on this continent. It is walled with rock, and is one of the outstanding sights in the region reached from Craig.

Plea for Brotherhood

What a great and glorious world this might be if we always kept the attitude toward one another which prevails in the hour of flood and fire and earthquake. Oh! The pity of it that we wait for some colossal disaster to awake us to the real spirit of universal love.—Elia Wheeler Wilcox.

The DIME goes STRAIGHT

—straight to your heart when it buys Victor.

Joyful news! The degraded dime has reformed, forsaken its bad smoking companions, promised to be good—good for one Peter Schuyler Victor.

That's a whole lot for one small dime to accomplish. Victor's filler is ALL-Havana. Its wrapper choice Sumatra. Flavor and fragrance are—you know, if you've ever smoked a Peter Schuyler!

In short, Victor's a 15-cent cigar in everything but price! Critical smokers admit it. See for yourself. Try Peter Schuyler Victor tonight! If you're particular, you'll enjoy your Victor more if you buy the "Five-Pack"—a pocket humidor which keeps five Peter Schuyler Victors moist and unbroken.

Famous "Last" Names on Pages of History

"Last of the Fathers" was a title given by the Latin church to St. Bernard, who lived from 1081 to 1153. "Last of the Goths" was the title given to Roderick, the thirty-fourth and last of the Visigothic line of kings, who ruled the throne of Spain from 414 to 411. To Philipomeno, who lived from 33 to 133 B. C., a native of Arcadia, as given the appellation "Last of the Greeks"; and he was the last really great and successful commander of the ancient Greeks. "Last of the Moans" is the title of Cooper's novel the same name, under which title the Indian chief Uncas is personated. The general Aetius has been called the "Last of the Romans." He checked the first invasion of Attila by the rest of Orleans in Gaul, modern France, the year 450 A. D. With his death, which occurred in 454, the last support of the western empire fell.

The large hat has unusual possibilities in the wardrobe. Trimmings appear to impart a more feminine touch to the hats. Flowers and feathers frequently soften rather trim outlines. Side treatments are much used while in some cases the trimming appears at the back at the nape of the neck. Natalie Kingston, the "movie" actress, whose rather large hats introduce this type into fashion, wears several charming models in the film, "Diamonds in the Rough."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

CAPTAIN KIDD

WHETHER it is through a grown-up who attends a masque as Captain Kidd, a small boy exhibiting his prowess with a toy sword and calling himself "Captain Kidd" or one of those periodic revivals of the legend of Captain Kidd's buried treasure, we are never without some reminder of this character who has come down to us not only in legend and tradition and fiction, but in history.

For Captain Kidd, though a highly colored and romantic figure, is no fictitious character out of a tale or old play, as many people who are unfamiliar with his origin may imagine. The authentic ancestor of the modern masquerading Captain Kidd was William Kidd, a British navigator who lived from 1650 to 1701. He was a well-known trader out of the colony of New York and during the war between England and France became famous for his bravery and his skill as a seaman.

In 1695 Captain Kidd received commissions from the king to capture pirates, and when, after sailing forth in his famous galleon, the Adventure, he did not return with ships, it was rumored that he himself had turned pirate and was roving the seas with his stolen treasure. Learning of this, he sailed boldly into Boston harbor and delivered to the governor a great hoard of treasure which he had captured. Nevertheless he was arrested, and history tells us, unjustly tried and hanged in London on May 23, 1701.

After Captain Kidd's death it was rumored about that he and his crew had buried immense treasure along the coast of the United States. A part of the booty of the ship Quedah was actually found secreted off Gardiner's Island, off Montauk Point, Long Island. (Copyright.)

Do You Know

...??... That: ...??...

"EUREKA," meaning "I have found it out," is an exclamation attributed to Archimedes, the Syracuse philosopher, upon discovering a method of determining the purity of the gold in King Hiero's crown.

The story is that Hiero delivered a certain weight of gold to a workman to be made into a votive crown, but suspecting that the workman had altered the gold with an inferior metal, asked Archimedes to test the crown. The philosopher went to bathe and in stepping into the bath, which was quite full, noticed that some of the water ran over. It immediately struck him that a body must remove its own bulk of water when immersed. When the idea flashed across his mind, the philosopher jumped out of the bath exclaiming, "Eureka, Eureka," and then ran home to try his experiment on the crown. He reasoned, silver is lighter than gold, therefore a pound-weight of silver will be more bulky than a pound-weight of gold, and being of greater bulk will remove more water.

Hence "Eureka" signifies an expression of triumph concerning a discovery. It is also the motto of the state of California.—Ann S. Turquist. (© 1927, by Western Newspaper Union.)

First Iron Rails

Although the United States, as everybody knows, is the country with more railroad mileage than any other, it is surprising that the first iron rails for the building of the first of these miles were imported from Europe. It was in May, 1829, that the ship Alexander arrived at Baltimore from Liverpool with 50 tons of iron and equipment for the construction of the first railroad in the United States.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Static in afternoon and early evening Tuesday made reception of anything else impossible, but as static waned after 7 o'clock and disappeared by 9 reception improved. Notable DX stations were WCBF, WJR, WLW, WSEA, WTAM and WEBB. The best of the strong local stations was WGY. WJZ showed a tendency to fade. WPG was again spreading over 15 numbers on the dial. This is believed to be a local condition, as WPG is properly operated.

WBEB has gone to court in an endeavor to upset the Radio Commission's ruling that it cannot oust WJZ from the wave length used by the last named station for several years. It seems that all of the holy roller stations seem to think they should be given anything they demand, regardless of justice, and have a perfect right to seize the property of others.

Announcement is made by the National Broadcasting Company that Powell Crosley, Jr., president of The Crosley Radio Corporation of Cincinnati, has purchased the program of the Blue Chain for broadcast through the Crosley station, WLW. Another independent station gone. "The Rosary" and a Hadley composition will feature the concert by Paul Althouse, famous tenor, in the Atwater Kent Hour, Sunday evening, July 17. It will be broadcast at 9:15, eastern daylight time, on a network of twelve stations from WEAF.

Albany, N. Y., July 13.—All public garages and service stations in the state, having repair facilities, have been invited to cooperate in the state's Save-a-Life campaign during the three weeks from July 18 to August 6, the machinery for the campaign having been started by Governor Smith's recent proclamation. The owners of such garages and stations who will inspect, without charge, the mechanical equipment of automobiles, and who have not already indicated their desire to cooperate, may obtain applications for appointment as official automobile inspection stations from the district offices of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in New York, Brooklyn, Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

Every automobile found in good condition by the officials will receive a certificate of approval from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. At the close of the campaign, August 6, the police officials of the state will be asked to examine the equipment of all automobiles which do not display the certificates of approval.

Farm Tour in Wallkill Valley

Management and Farm Practices Will Be Studied on Your Leading Farms in County.

Arrangements are under way for a farm tour to study farm management and farm business practices on four leading farms in the county, on Friday, July 22. The tour will be led by the Farm Management Department at Cornell University. The farms to be visited are those of Raymond Deyo of Springtown, Raymond Deyo of Forest Glen, Elwin Sheeley of Wallkill, and DeWitt Crowell of Wallkill as the particular farms to be visited.

The tour this year is to be in the Wallkill Valley as last year farmers from the Rondout Valley were honored in the tour in their section.

Many things of interest are to be seen and studied on the trip according to Professor Hart. At Jesse Deyo's one of the finest fields of potatoes in the state will be observed and Deyo's cultural methods examined. Heavy yielding acres of wheat, corn and hay will also be in evidence. At the Raymond Deyo farm the tourists will find a well diversified farm business with dairy, poultry and fruit as important factors. Careful records kept on all farm operations will afford opportunity for observing the importance of farm bookkeeping. At Elwin Sheeley's the growing and feeding of legume crops, alfalfa, clover, peas and soy beans will be the most interesting topics for observation. At this stop, Professor H. Barron, in charge of the legume crop campaign, will speak briefly. A final stop is to be made at DeWitt Crowell's fruit and dairy farm on the Gebeberg road west of Wallkill. Mr. Crowell has developed a successful and paying farm business of a size and magnitude far above the average. His good judgment and courage to go ahead have been big factors in the success.

Indications are that this tour will be the very successful one held in the Rondout Valley last year, when thirty farmers and their wives turned out for the trip. All who attend could come prepared with a basket for the picnic at noon. The tour starts at Mr. Deyo's farm on the Springtown road at 9 a. m. standard time, Friday, July 22.

MEAL SAVES TIME

When the weather is hot, a meal that can be prepared simply and quickly becomes doubly attractive to one who must prepare it. Here is an appetizing meal which can be prepared easily and cooked in half an hour's time:

Ham, Sliced Baked
Escalloped Onions
Peach Pudding

All of these dishes can be baked at the same time and all will be ready for serving in about an hour. For the ham, use the following recipe:

Ham, Sliced Baked.
1 ham, sliced, 1 1/2 to 2 pounds
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup water
1/2 cup cider or juice from fresh canned fruit
Cut ham slices 3/4 to 1 inch thick, lay on both sides in a pan or oven, and place in shallow baking pan or casserole. Spread over the ham a dressing made by mixing sugar, crumbs, cider, pepper and water. This will give 6 servings.

To Prepare This Meal.

After the ham has been prepared according to directions given, place in the top shelf of a moderate oven (about 300 F.) to bake. Combine the peach pudding and pour into a buttered baking dish. Prepare onions as directed in the escalloped corn. Place the onions on the top shelf with the meat and the other two baking dishes on the bottom shelf of the oven; continue baking at a moderate temperature. Remove covers from the dishes during the last 15 minutes of cooking to allow for browning on top.

Baked Onions.

6 medium sized onions
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons bacon fat
1/2 cup hot water
Remove the outer dry skin of the onions. Warm the bacon fat in a casserole and roll each onion in the melted fat until the outer surface is coated. Sprinkle each onion with salt and sugar, add the hot water, and bake in a moderate oven.

Escalloped Corn.

2 cups corn, fresh or canned
1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg
Add milk, salt, pepper and butter to the corn. Pour in the melted butter and bread crumbs mixture into a greased baking dish, cover with 1/2 of the bread crumbs, add rest of corn and cover with remainder of bread crumbs which have first been mixed with the melted butter or fat. Cover and bake in a moderate oven.

Peach Pudding.

1/2 cup scalded apples or peaches
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups peaches fresh or canned
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cook the apples or peaches in the boiling water until partly transparent. Add the sugar, lemon juice and salt and boil to the apples, pour in a buttered baking dish. Stir the peaches and carefully add to the apple mixture. Bake in a covered dish until peaches are clear and well done with cream or custard sauce.

Rotary Hears War Debts Discussed

With Stanley Osborn of Saratoga Springs again acting as song leader, the Rotary luncheon this week was well attended and full of pep. In consideration of the regular song leader of the club, one of the selections sung was "There's Music in the Air". Mr. Osborn also sang two solos that were greatly enjoyed. Visitors from New York and Catskill were present. The speaker of the day was Arthur S. Flemming of this city, who enjoyed his second experience in visiting a Rotary Club, the first having been in Cedar City, Utah.

Mr. Flemming spoke on the question of the Inter-Allied war debts. After giving a short history of the whole question and showing the present status of the problem, he proceeded to discuss it from the viewpoint of whether or not it was expedient for the United States from an economic standpoint to receive payment on these debts.

He went on to point out that the only way in which these debts can be paid by the European countries is through an exchange of goods. This means that the European countries must sell more goods than they ever have before. They find, however, that it is impossible for them to do this because of the high tariff barriers which are in existence all over the world.

So as these European countries have to meet the demands of the United States to pay off these war debts they do so to a very large extent by borrowing more and more money from both London and New York. This means that instead of reducing their debts they are being loaded down with more debts. Obviously this condition cannot continue.

The speaker then referred to Sir George Paish, economic adviser to the Chancellor of the "British" Exchequer during the war, who in commenting on this situation said recently that if conditions do not change "there will be a complete breakdown of international credit. The breakdown may come by this fall but it is bound to come within a one year period. If that breakdown does come you and the whole world will in time be faced with bankruptcy."

The speaker after briefly reviewing some of the arguments of men who are opposed to cancelling this debt either in whole or part said that he felt that the time had not yet come for anyone to arrive at any definite conclusions in regard to the problem. "We will have to wait and see what happens. It is a problem which is bound to be called to our attention time and time again during the next few years and one to which we should give some thought and consideration by reason of the fact that it is bound up in a very vital manner with our whole economic system."

Harvest Weather Forecast Right

The harvest weather forecast furnished farmers in the county by the Ulster County Farm Bureau cooperating with the United States Department of Agriculture is proving more reliable this year than in previous years. Since the reports were started on July 7, the weather man has predicted with complete success for each day. It is not expected this record can be maintained throughout the season but is an indication that the service can be used to good advantage.

The "Weather-Man" makes no claims for the complete accuracy of his predictions. In fact, on some days he does not feel justified in predicting at all and states so frankly. "When this situation is in the air the forecast reads 'doubtful' meaning your guess is as good as his. On the other hand when the forecaster is definitely certain of his predictions he broadcasts the words 'strongly indicated.' If not quite so sure, yet not in doubt he will predict using the word indicated, for example, 'rainy weather indicated.'"

In calling for the report the caller should understand the meaning of the key words in the forecast and read it accordingly. Members have been furnished telephone reminder cards to help interpret the forecasts.

The forecast is available throughout the county at the following places:

Accord, Accord Farmers' Cooperative.
Ashbury, Mrs. Charles Smith.
Clintondale, Clintondale Cooperative Association.
Ellenville, Jewish Agricultural Society.

Tennis Matches at St. Cloud Reveal Parisienne in her Smartest Sports Togs

Loose Woolen Top Coats, Box-Pleated Skirts, Low Heels, Characteristic of Clothes Worn by Cosmopolitan Crowd—Blues Ranging from Gray Blues to Deep Royal Blues and Also Grays Favored by Smart Women

Paris.—The tennis matches at St. Cloud brought a cosmopolitan crowd to the club of the Stade Francais which lies in the historic park of St. Cloud. All nations seemed to be represented, but perhaps most extensively the French and American. One was struck by the strong emphasis on sports clothes. French women who have clung so faithfully to their high heels, wore low heels a l'Americaine with their sports costumes.

Loose woolen topcoats were worn over two-piece sports costumes. The coats were mostly of beige camel's hair or dark blue in color. Sports suits were of wool jersey both striped and plain, with trimming and pleated skirts of crepe de Chine. Large and medium size box pleats were the most popular. The sports coat and contrasting skirt also were favored, worn with a shirt blouse or wool jersey jumper. Flannel was the material used in such colors as royal blue with a gray skirt and gray felt hat, or a black jacket with gray checked or plain skirt.

Felt hats in varied shapes. The Deauville handkerchief, of the same color as the dress and with small designs or large stripes of the same color in different tones, was worn again. Felt hats were the only type worn with sports ensembles and were of the same color as the dress. The crowns of these felts were small and round and consisted of two varieties, the narrow-brimmed with the brim slightly rolled up in front, and the wider brim turned down all round, wider at the sides than at the front or back. Pin-tucks trimmed the front or back of some of the smartest felts, while others had a small bow of felt on one side.

The ensemble note was strong, and there were many one-piece dresses of silk with coats of a woolen material in the same color. Coats were of a slightly darker shade than the dress and were cut on perfectly straight lines, with bias trimmings on the back and sides. On the lighter coats, fur was of the same color as the cloth, fox and lynx being the favorite kinds. Dresses of printed crepe de Chine or georgette were worn with long coats of a plain material lined with the printed silk the same as the dress.

Blues Most Marked Colors.

Almost every woman wore fabric flowers, of georgette, taffeta, or chiffon, the same color as her costume. The loose, shaggy-looking flowers were the smartest. Here again the blues were the most marked colors and ranged from pastel gray blues to the deep royal blues. Gray in pearl and mauve shades was also worn by many of the smartest women.

The young American girls seemed to prefer Lanvin's green, the pale willow greens, and material the color of Kasha. Patou's ibis also was worn with the fur on the coats dyed the same color. White and dark blue were combined in some of the smartest ensembles, and one of the Baronesses de Rothschild wore a striking ensemble of this combination. Pastel colors in many shades of pastel colors, such as pastel blue and rose, pastel green, and salmon or mauve and green.

Low-Heeled Shoes with One Strap.

Velveteen made bright colored jackets worn over one-piece or jumper dresses of silk or wool. One or two felt hats were trimmed with velvet, and the wide brim was lined with velvet. Crepe Marocain, crepe de Chine, wool jersey, and Kasha were mostly worn; there was also a certain amount of linen. Shantung, wool crepe, and wool repp.

Gloves of beige antelope and white antelope were worn by many of the women. Also white and natural-colored chamolins with large hand stitching in black. Stockings of flesh and beige tones were worn, also pale gray with a decided flesh tone. Bags of suede and snakeskin were seen in beige, brown, gray, black, or the same color as the wearer's dress. Low-heeled shoes with one bar strap and semi-low heels were worn by nearly all the women. Suede and calf were used together, also patent leather and snakeskin.

Sesquipedalian Words

Mark Twain was not the only person to find amusement in the German language. A foreigner thus accounts for the deliberation with which the negotiations held at Locarno were carried on.

"Our interlocutors cannot and their explanations," said this foreigner, "with the best will in the world they cannot pronounce rapidly such words as this: Antialkoholengesellschaftsvereinschliessungsdruckkostenveranschlagungsprüfungscommissionsversammlungsanladungskarten."

This little word means "Invitation cards for the meeting of the commission for verifying the accounts of the expenses of printing the list of members of the anti-alcoholic congress."

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

INTEREST IN PRINTS EXTENDS TO HANDBAGS AS WELL AS SCARFS.

New York.—It is well established that this summer is granting much favor to printed materials of all kinds. Printed silk sports dresses are now often smarter than plain ones, the printed chiffon evening gown is a definite part of the mode, printed linen and cottons coats are added whenever dresses are plain, and printed silk bathing suits are preferred over plain ones by the discriminating beach decorator. Thus we find that a touch of something printed is one of the keys to chic and here we have a handbag as well as a kerchief scarf responding to the vogue.

Colorful Paisley Design on Pongee Square with Matching Pouch Hand-Bag.

The kerchief scarf offers possibilities for the young girl or matron who has a knack for jauntiness. Many dresses this summer include a matching scarf. Other dresses, particularly white ones, are given a new interest by the addition of a brightly-hued scarf knotted about the shoulders. Frequently this may match the hat, or the ribbon around it.

In addition to prints, the multi-colored idea is evident in some of the smartest hats. For instance, a white felt of natural colored Bangkok, may be had in five brightly colored ribbons, irregularly arranged. In this way, a hat is made to serve many dresses.

A colored belt is another medium for the introduction of bright colors that is almost essential to the young girl's wardrobe. The belt may be of any width that is becoming, and made of stitched fabric, gold or silver kid, or colored suede. In every case it must boast an attractive buckle. Futuristically shaped buckles in nickel are especially smart.

Wisdom in Reticence

"People who say little" said Sir John Lubbock, "are the ones who think the most."—Washington Star.

Model in Flower-Printed Chiffon Made With Voluminous Skirt and the New Low-Dipping Line at the Back. An Extreme Design in the Slim Silhouette of Beige Crepe Roma With Cape and Scarf Drapery of Beige and Silver Lace.

Daintiest Silks for Formal Wear

Details of Treatment Are Varied; Chiffons, Crepes Are Much in Vogue.

Everyone who saw the early spring collections, says a fashion writer in the New York Times, observed that there was little startlingly different from the fashions presented in the last three years. There was no splash of color, no extreme in design of gowns, but that there was no mere repetition was also very plain. It was as if in the styles shown, no great stride in any direction had been taken for this year, but that a closer attention was being given to detail and the sketches were being filled in. In doing both of these things the designers who offered courageous things last year have given greater importance and distinction to the variants that are now leading in the mode of the hour. In these is a finer quality and more artistic value. The vital point in the latest conception and the aim of every styles creator of authority seems to be to give the long, slim effect in all of this season's models.

This being a silk season, the latest styles are illustrated in every phase of silk fabric for every sort of gown. Dressing dress for the summer is of silk in the most delicate weaves, known by up-to-date names, and the distinguishing feature is one of grace. Because of the type of material, evening gowns are most lovely in the lines of their drapery, illustrating the success with which the styles creators have won out for the more feminine type. To quote one of the leading manufacturers of fine dress silks, the sheer, truffs of which evening gowns are made are worn with more weight, so that lines are no longer fluttering, but draped with a clinging quality. The evening gown for this season and the next must hang according to design of the artist, and to do this must have a certain texture to give it body.

This does not mean that the sheer materials are less gossamer-like, less lustrous in appearance, but that they have a certain treatment which makes them more responsive to clever handling and more subtle arrangement.

New Weaves in Crepe.

Such requisites apply to all of the sheer silk fabrics—the various crepes, chiffon, marquisettes, georgette. In crepe are shown several new weaves, some lighter and some heavier than those of last season, the most important for this year's modes being the crepe satin, a shimmering, supple crepe that is almost serpentine in the drape with which it responds to draping. Something entirely new is a crepe silk gauze which has the appearance of fine gossamer and is figured in metal. This is being used by a few of the most exclusive couturiers and will be the high light in the fashion picture for evening dress in the autumn. This metal cloth is an achievement in the art of design and weaving of which costumes of uncommon elegance and distinction are to be made. It is a fairy-like, gossamer thing, exquisite in composition and color, with the pattern in metal threads. There is a suggestion of opulence in the manner of weighting these clouds with gold and silver in delicate figures. Some are conventional like the scales of draping fish, seen through crystal waters. It is easy to visualize elaborate evening gowns built of these fabrics.

Styles in evening dress for immediate requirements are presented in the new crepe, chiffon and tulle both plain and draped. In plain materials success is a matter of beautiful color and graceful lines, in both of which charming models have been brought out. In color the palette is a simple display, with which the early spring season opened, has passed, leaving a few shades conspicuous in their popularity. Green, with several tones blending in one gown; yellow, and all of the luscious fruit and flower shades are still fashionable, but two—beige and blue—are outstanding. These, in many tones and blendings, are most important.

Yellow is used in all shades, and is particularly lovely in thin crepe or chiffon with touches of silver in the trimming. The grades of yellow are known as mals, champagne, mastic, natural, cream, blond, pallid, ecaille, chamolins and kashou, which is a deep, rich shade. Many of the new nets and tinted laces which are being used lavishly by some of the best modistes are dyed in these tones of yellow and beige, making softly flattering and most charming frocks for dinner and dancing. Silver is introduced with fantastic effect, in ribbon, braid, pretty crinkle motifs and bows. Flowers are seen less than formerly for evening dress, contrasting with their enduring vogue for daytime decoration. Next to yellow, beige and blue, green is considered fashionable, in some lovely delicate shades for evening, one exceptionally beautiful being named lilien.

Black, black and white, black and pink and the pastel pinks are shown in some of the late Paris models, and the light grays are growing steadily in favor.

Some Use Taffeta and Faille.

Not all of the evening gowns will be made of sheer material this summer, for some creations of style and distinction have been received from important Paris houses emphasizing taffeta and faille of beautiful quality. Jeanne Lanvin has just brought out a new variant of her period gown in black taffeta. Instead of the straight full skirt she has arranged large paniers and has made a bodice of the silk with wide shoulders and a large butterfly bow at the back caught at the waist with a handsome ornament of brilliants. In another model lilien taffeta is used veiled with net of the same shade finely tucked and caught up at one side.

Fringed evening gowns are apparently well thought of by the French couturiers, for almost every one among those representative has tried his hand at this type. In several handsome, evening gowns, the diagonal lines are followed, dropping the hem at one side or in the middle. One of the models seen is likely to endure and be many times copied because of its grace. This is made of light three rows of deep black silk fringe sewn in slanting lines on a foundation of black crepe satin. The bodice is without sleeves.

Sheer Underthings.

Underthings being displayed in the shops are so sheer that it is difficult to believe that they will hold together. Nevertheless, this new underwear fabric is supposed to be stronger than many of the heavier worn silks and to withstand the most trying wear and laundering. It is being brought out by one house in all sorts of patterns, including bralettes, bloomers, panties, envelope chemises, nightgowns, step-ins and tees. Individual pieces may be purchased or an entire set.

This fabric is made up in several styles so that various requirements may be met. For those who desire this type of underwear for wear with evening clothes, there are lovely French lace. Then for those who desire just a suggestion of ruffles, there is a wide selection showing gay little designs worked out in colors of forget-me-nots or showing medallion motifs of exquisite lace or peridot. The intricately tailored made is adhered to in models that are self-trimmed with finely bound hems, bands and edges. The latest fashion in various shades are much in demand in this type of underwear, especially in the soft tones of lavender, pink, yellow, rose, green, and white.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

SUGGESTIVE IDEAS

Three square feet of garden will supply a small family with nice salad lettuce all summer. Feed lettuce takes more room but it is well worth the time and trouble it takes.

A row or two of peas will keep one supplied with fresh peas, if planted every two weeks until the frosts of fall.

When cooking new green peas, add a teaspoonful of sugar to them. Some like a small bunch of mint cooked with the peas. This is especially good when serving lamb chops.

Gum camphor in the silver chest will keep it from tarnishing. Don't forget when poisoned with poison ivy to crush fresh catnip leaves and bind over the spots infected.

A little paraffin rubbed over the kitchen range while it is still warm will keep it shiny and good looking. When leaving the house for a few weeks this is a good thing to do to keep it from rusting. Save all scraps of paraffin to use for such purposes.

Muriatic acid (very poisonous) will remove rust and other stains from porcelain tubs and toilets. Use care to rinse well as soon as the stain is removed, otherwise it will eat into the enamel.

The spatula or wide lumber knife is indispensable in scraping out cooking dishes, doing away with the old-fashioned and not to be recommended, forefinger.

The finger nails, with the best of care, harbor countless bacteria. Care of the food is not being overfussy; we all like to feel that the food we eat has been neatly prepared.

Less butter will be used on griddle cakes if some is added to the hot sirup to be used on cakes. Some mothers think that both butter and sirup on cakes is wasteful, but if one likes it better, that is the best way to decide the question.

Economy is a great game and the oftener it is played the more enjoyment is gained by using one's mind on this important matter.

U. & D. Cornell Blank Schillings

The U. & D. Cornell gave Schillings the worst facing of the season at the Athletic Field Tuesday night, submerging them, 16-0. The Railroaders started scoring in the first inning, hitting Connelly hard and kept it up throughout the game. Williams fared a little better than Connelly, but his offerings were hit freely.

Black was on the mound for the Railroaders and had an easy time of it. He had the Furnituremen at his mercy at all times, twelve of them fanning the breeze.

The Railroaders scored in every inning. Schillings tried hard from being shut out in the last inning, getting three men on the sacks, but could not produce the necessary walk.

HARRY WILLIS IS SLIGHTLY FAVORITE OVER TROUDEN.

New York, July 12 (AP).—Once the most feared boxer in the heavy-weight division, Harry Willis, the known panther of New Orleans, will try to turn back the years tonight in his 15 round fight with Paulino Troaden. Troaden, a giant, at Ebbets Field.

Willis is pitted against one of the strongest men in the boxing game. Troaden's ability to assimilate punishment has been demonstrated and although he is a dangerous brawler in the path of Willis's comeback attempt.

After 15 years in the ring Willis is a slight favorite.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)
Home runs by Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby and George Sisler vied for chief major league interest today, each accomplishment having its own distinctive bid for baseball importance.

Ruth's mighty wallop yesterday was one of the longest ever seen in Cleveland. It came in the ninth inning and while it was just another run in the 7-0 whitewash administered to the Indians by the Yanks, it did give the Babe an edge on Lou Gehrig in their scramble for swatting supremacy. Ruth now has 30 homers to his credit, one more than "Columbia Lou."

Hornsby's clout in the sixth inning with Lindstrom on base gave the Giants a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati. Hornsby accounted for all of the New York runs.

Sisler's homer came with two on in the ninth at St. Louis and gave the Browns a 5-6 win from the Boston Red Sox. Sisler collected 4 hits, including two doubles, and either scored or drove in each St. Louis run.

Chicago's hustling Cubs continued to hold on to first place in the National League, Sheriff Blake's pitching being entirely too much for Boston. The Cubs poked out 13 hits while Blake was holding the Braves to three for a 6-2 victory. The Pittsburgh Pirates kept at the Cubs' heels by beating Dazzy Vance and the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2-1.

The St. Louis Cardinals' 9-6 victory over Philadelphia rounded out the clean sweep by first division teams over second division opponents. Jess Haines was batted hard by the Phillies but the world champions made their blows count. Old Cy Williams connected for his sixteenth homer of the season in the ninth.

The Chicago White Sox rallied sharply in the sixth inning to trim Connie Mack's Athletics, 8-5. Rime and Pate were driven out in that stanza by a six run assault. The Philadelphia defeat prevented the Mackmen from climbing back into the American League's first division, for the Tigers were losing to Washington, 9-6. The Detroiters drove Lisenbee and Marberry out of the box but Braxton saved the Senatorial cause by fine relief pitching.

Sharks to Be Capitalized

A new industry, which will depend upon the shark for its products is to be established in New Zealand. Products obtained from the shark include leather, a fertilizer, valuable oil, glue and a substance from the pancreatic gland for medicinal purposes. The aim of the promoters of the enterprise, among whom are some of the foremost men in the country, is to secure a daily catch of 1,000 sharks, which abound in New Zealand waters.

Bobby Jones Scores a 68

Barely Missed the Putt for the Birdie to Get 67 and Break Record of Ancient Course—Faint Go Wild.
St. Andrews, Scotland, July 13 (AP).—Bobby Jones today struck a decisive first blow in defense of his British open golf title by scoring a sensational 68 for the first 18 of the 72 holes to decide the title.

Bobby was on the par 18th hole with his second, 16 feet from the cup. He barely missed the putt for the birdie to get 67 and break the record of the ancient course. As he tapped the ball home for the par and tie of the course's best, the great crowd massed about the green burst into wild cheers.

His card:
Out 454, 433, 423—32.
In 434, 464, 444—36—68.
After compiling a record 32 on the first nine, when he was even three from the fifth through the ninth, he went seriously at the task of bettering par on the difficult second nine.

Missed Two Shots.

He missed only two shots on the sensational round. His drive found a bunker on the second and on the fifteenth his tee shot reached rough at the right near the railway line. A powerful recovery, however, sent the ball on the green and he got his four. At the 12th he was five under fours.

The most spectacular hole was on the long fifth, 530 yards of threatening trouble. Here he was on the edge of the immense green with two tremendous wooden club wallops, but nearly 100 feet from the cup. He gave the ball a chance with a crisp blow from his putter and it skimmed smoothly over the velvet surface of the green and fairly into the cup for an eagle three.

The round sent St. Andrews' golf fans wild. Men, women and children of this ancient town, where golf is life itself, gave vent to their pent-up feelings as the master finished his task for the day. They had with difficulty managed to refrain themselves as they rushed along behind him as he reeled off the shots which gave him the 68. After the round members of the gallery were commenting with awe that great as the round was, with a break of fortune it would have been three strokes better.

Larry Nabholz of Sharon, Pa., who was paired with William Nolan of Port Marnock, Ireland, after getting a par four on the first hole, came to grief on the second, where he took a 7. After the second hole, Nabholz played smoothly until the fifth where he slipped a stroke, finishing his first 9 with a 39. He came home in 38, one over par. His card:
Out 474, 454, 435—34.
In 434, 464, 454—38—77.

Jim Barnes, who was paired with Michael Daragon of London, took a 38 for the first 9 and added a 38 home. He took a six on the fifth hole, but otherwise had little difficulty. His card:
Out 354, 564, 434—38.
In 444, 546, 444—38—76.

Results of Tennis Singles at Mohonk

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., July 13.—The second and third rounds of the men's and women's singles in the Ulster County tennis championships were completed Tuesday on the courts of the Mohonk Club. Several first-round matches in the men's doubles also were played. In the feature match of the day Dr. Philip B. Hawk defeated Ralph Baggs, 9-7, 6-4.

Hawk was too steady for his rival, who, however, gave the victor a hard tussle throughout the match.

Jack Garretson, Cornell star, caught a tartar in William V. Einsmann, who continued his progress by defeating the collegian in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. Walter Yearsley, of Philadelphia, a seeded player, was beaten by his clubmate, Watson Knight, in a hard-fought three-set match, but Knight fell a victim to Norman Winter, of the West Side Club, in the third round.

Odd Power of Light Rays

By the use of cleverly controlled rays of colored light and a refraction screen, a Washington artist is able to make things invisible, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. At a demonstration a person sitting in a chair was suddenly "dissolved from sight" while the chair remained. According to reports, the late Houdini was to have employed this system in causing an entire audience to disappear. The "magic" of the stunt is based on certain laws of light and vision and emphasized the fact that our eyes are dependent upon light rays for what they see.

Fine Attributes

The love of moral beauty and that retention of the spirit of youth which is implied by the indulgence of the poetical taste are evidences of good disposition in any man and argue well for the largeness of his mind in other respects.—Leigh Hunt.

Dempsey Still Punching Hard

White Sulphur Spring, Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 13 (AP).—After a day of idleness, Jack Dempsey, once king of all heavyweights, was ready for renewed assault on his battered corps of sparring partners at Tom Luther's lake-side training camp today.

With only six more days of training left before he steps into the ring to meet The new Boston strong boy, Jack Sharkey, at the Yankee Stadium a week from tomorrow night, Dempsey is satisfied that he will overcome the youth and speed of Sharkey with an old fashioned exhibition of punching.

In his workout in the canvas-enclosed ring by the shores of Saratoga Lake, Dempsey has failed to display any flashing speed, and his boxing has been noticeable by its lack of effectiveness. But he has been punching, punching as hard as ever in his brilliant career, and it is the power of his punch on which Dempsey depends to carry him through to a victory over the lightning-fast Sharkey boy.

Dempsey has deliberately taken blow after blow from his sparring mates, to weave into close quarters and batter away at their blow-wracked bodies. His punching has taken a heavy toll among his sparring partners. Jack Hillenbrant, Bill Batey and Pietro Corri left yesterday. Eddie McMullen has been unable to box in a week.

Chief Metoquah and Marty Gallagher were stiffened in his last workout.

SEARGEANT SAMMY BAKER DROPS MUSHY CALLAHAN

Chicago, July 13 (AP).—Except for four pounds, Sergeant Sammy Baker of New York would be the junior welterweight champion of the world today.

He shot so many lefts and rights into Mushy Callahan, the champion, in their scheduled ten-round fight at Cubs Park last night that the Los Angeles scrapper went down and out in the ninth round. Baker, however, was four pounds over the junior welterweight limit, so Callahan kept his title.

A right to the chin in the ninth dropped Callahan. He attempted to get to his feet but the referee refused to let him continue.

BAN JOHNSON SAYS MONEY COULDN'T PAY HIM

Chicago, July 13 (AP).—Whatever the American League owes Ban Johnson after his 27 years' service no money could pay it, the retiring league head believes.

"Some folks expressed surprise that I turned down the $200,000 called for in my contract," Johnson said as he began putting his official house in order at league headquarters here. "There was nothing surprising in that."

"I hope the American League owes me nothing, but whatever it is, if anything, it couldn't be paid in money."

Perhaps Johnson had in mind those early years of struggle to establish a league. Maybe it was the recollection of the steady growth of the circuit, the thought of millions of dollars that has been paid into the box offices by American fans. More likely, it was the knowledge that he had accomplished what he set out to accomplish—"make baseball the greatest professional sport in America."

"I can't help but feel that in many ways I have helped to do that," he said.

What does ROUGH CUT mean to you?

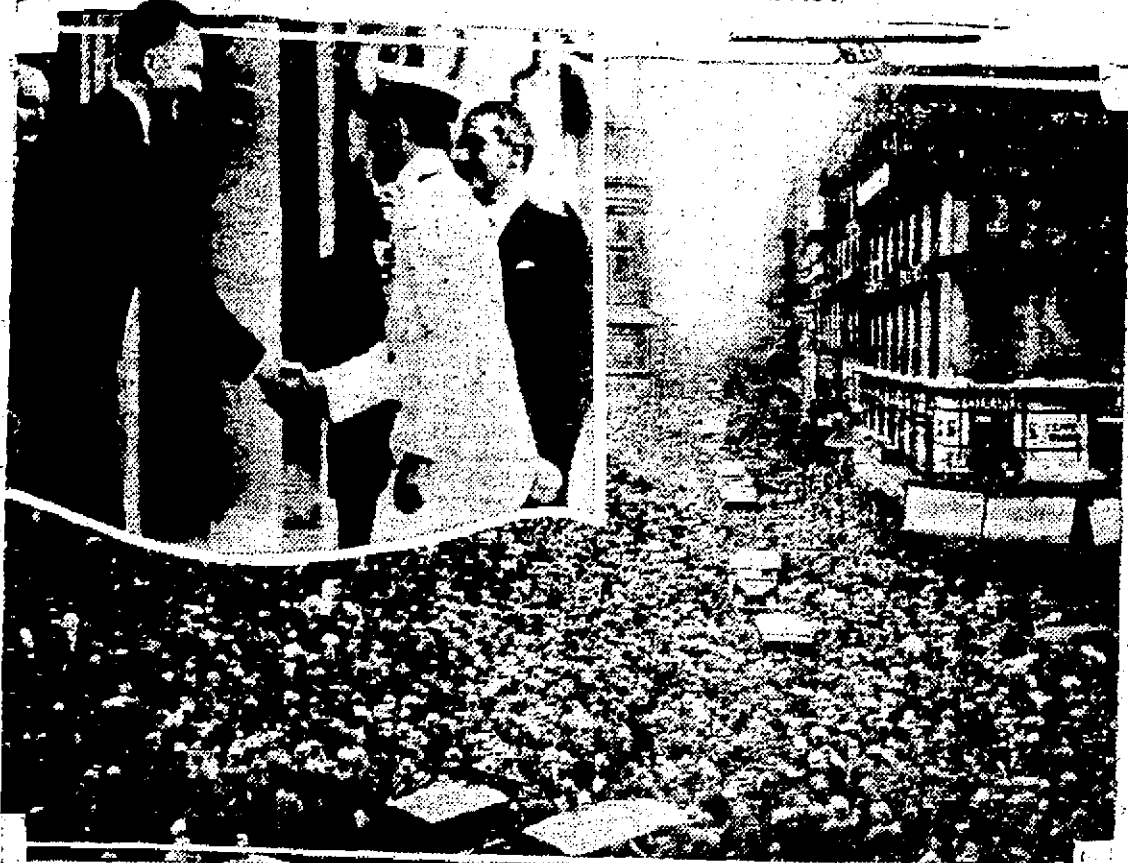

THIS rich full-flavored old Burley is a particularly cool-smoking tobacco to begin with... Wellman's Method makes it cooler—but the "rough cut" supplies the finishing touch.

For remember, this is PIPE tobacco, hence it is cut in the one way pipe tobacco should be cut—in large, coarse, shaggy flakes that burn slower, smoke cooler, and last nearly twice as long. Smokers tell us

it's the coolest cut of all!

Literary Fame Came

Slowly to Johnson

Samuel Johnson gained little money when he compiled an English dictionary, but the work secured to make his reputation secure. He had been in London ten years, living obscurely as a book writer and slowly winning a reputation when he was given a chance to prepare the dictionary, for which he was to receive $4,500. It took him seven years to complete the tremendous work and he had to pay several assistants. The work is remembered not because of its merits, but largely because of Johnson's letter to the end of Chesterfield, who had rebuffed the editor until he heard the dictionary was nearing completion and then bowed to be regarded as one of the benefactors of the scholar.

Upon the publication of the dictionary, Johnson was given recognition as the greatest living figure in English literature. Fielding was dead. Richardson was living in retirement. Gibbon was in Switzerland. Gray and Chomper were publishing little. Johnson was hailed as England's greatest scholar. The honor had been slow in coming for 14 years had passed since he had left Lichfield to make his fortune in London.—Kansas City Star.

Organize Poultry Culling Service

The poultry culling service conducted each year by the Ulster County Farm Bureau has been organized and is again available to poultrymen throughout the county. This announcement is made by Farm Bureau Manager Wigsten following a recent meeting of the Farm Bureau Board of Directors. At this meeting Raymond DuBois of Forest Glen was employed to handle the culling work.

The arrangement will meet with the approval of the many who have used the culling service in past years. Mr. DuBois's work has proven completely satisfactory. Last year he examined a total of 18,035 birds for more than sixty-four owners. Of this number examined 4,450 were removed from the flock as culls and disposed of by the owners. In addition 3,500 birds were banded to be kept for breeding purposes.

This service is furnished poultrymen at a very nominal fee. Owners who desire more information regarding the work or who want to sign for the service should communicate direct with the Farm Bureau Office at Kingston.

WEST POINT VISITORS

NOT INTERFERED WITH.

West Point, July 12.—On July

10, Sunday, the Army Superin-

endent of the U. S. Military Academy, Lt. Col. C. B. Hodges, put in force the new traffic regulation which directs the stream of through traffic around the military reservation.

Three days trial of this order has demonstrated the wisdom of the change. The main source of criticism seems to come from those people who wrongly believe they are not entitled to visit the Academy. The superintendent has specifically stated that visitors to the Post and to both hotels will be admitted. There is no restriction on cars bound for either the Hotel Thayer or the West Point

Hotel. The only restriction on visiting cars desiring to view ceremonies is one of routing and parking. Persons visiting members of the Academy are subjected to the order.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 12 (P).—Resumption of the upward movement in today's stock market carried both the rail and industrial averages to record high levels. Buying was influenced largely by the continued ease in credit conditions, the steady investment demand for seasoned dividend paying securities and the reported turn for the better in the steel industry.

Rails again were in the forefront of the advance, more than a dozen issues selling 2 to 4 1/2 points above yesterday's final quotations. Southern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville and Peoria and Eastern moved into new high ground. Optimistic forecasts of fall business by leading rail executives were an important factor in the buying movement.

U. S. Steel assumed leadership of the industrial group, crossing 125 to the highest level since the old stock was stricken from the list. Although the composite pig iron price is at the lowest level since 1922, the early July demand for iron and steel has exceeded expectations and aroused hopes of good fall business.
Mack Trucks, which has been under pressure lately, quickly advanced 3 points. General Motors held fairly steady, just above 200, with Wall Street anxiously awaiting the corporation's dividend action later in the month. Several of the accessory shares were strong, Gabriel Snubber and Martin Rockwell reaching new high ground. Bush Terminal, Manhattan Shirt, National Tea and Tobacco products A. also exceeded their high prices for the year.

Seek Woman in Fatal Auto Crash

Utica, N. Y., July 13 (P).—With one man dead and another badly injured authorities today sought an unidentified woman as the key to the mystery surrounding an automobile accident on the state highway three miles south of New Hartford yesterday afternoon.

The dead man, Belmont A. Wolfer, 32, of New York, was killed outright.
Clarence E. Peterson, investment broker of 50 Broad street, New York, is in Memorial Hospital here with concussion of the brain, scalp wounds and lacerations of the left eye and left hand. Wolfer was his secretary.
The car was owned by Peterson.

Who was driving or just how the accident happened authorities today were not prepared to state.
The unidentified woman in the case was said by people of New Hartford to have been in the car before it left the village.

German Aviatrix In the Limelight

S. S. Leviathan, July 13 (P).—The five American air heroes who have flown the Atlantic and are now homeward bound aboard the Leviathan seemed content today to take the background in the life aboard ship and with due gallantry permit the limelight to play exclusively upon an ambitious frau, Frau Thea Rasche, the German aviatrix, who is also aboard. She is going to the United States, determined to recross the Atlantic by air and thus be the first woman to make that flight.

Commander Byrd and his companions remained in their state rooms last night, much to the disappointment of many passengers, including Frau Thea Rasche, who says she hopes to get inspiration from them.

men but only fifteen of these will make the voyage aboard the whaler.
The others will sail earlier for Steward Island, the base for the flight.
The C. A. Larsen will load Byrd's three-engined Fokker monoplane, in which the flier will make the South Pole flight, together with a smaller single-engined Fokker and several tons of equipment at Norfolk, Va., September 15, when she will sail for this port.

Byrd's planes and supplies will be unloaded by the ship at Steward Island and she will then proceed south to the Ross Sea in the Antarctic where she will begin her season's job of producing 50,000 barrels of whale oil from whales caught by her five small "killer ships."

While Byrd is on his hazardous flight, the C. A. Larsen, from her port eleven degrees from the Pole, will maintain constant radio communications between the plane and the outside world. Byrd will be among the 15 to sail from here aboard the C. A. Larsen.

SLOW ADVANCE IN ART OF MEDICINE

Only Recently Matter of Scientific Exactitude.

Behind the white-walled, sanitary hospitals of today, with their trained physicians, surgeons and nurses, lurks the shadow of the prehistoric medicine man and the nebulae of superstition, says Dr. T. K. Gruber, superintendent of the Detroit receiving hospital.

It is not over 75 years ago that medicine and surgery became a matter of scientific exactitude and not over 50 that it began to rise to its present high estate.

Superstition prevailed as the prime curative factor of ailments for centuries and perhaps has not been entirely removed until the last two or three decades. The medicine man of the Indian and the negro voodoo man are an outgrowth of our first physicians. A pain in the leg was physically to the treatment of certain incantations and weird steps; an inflammation and tokens spread about the cot of the sick. Some of these superstitions met death with the discovery of the true condition, but many traveled down through the ages to the times of our grandparents.

One of the oldest, which still is accepted with good-natured tolerance on our part, is that the heart is the seat of love. The actor still presses his hand to the left side of his bosom when addressing love messages to the heroine, and our vocabulary still includes such expressions as "heart aches," "broken hearted" and "heart throbs."

"In the early days of medical history the powers attributed to the heart were numerous," Doctor Gruber says. "The Chinese, among the first to practice medicine as it is understood today, held the wholly erroneous belief that the larynx connected with the heart and that our food passed into that organ. It also was said to be the seat of our intellect as well as our love." The same view was held by the Hindus, who also ascribed our intellectual powers to the spleen.

For centuries, probably from the beginning of man, illness was attributed to a spiritual power; the permeation of the body by some evil spirit, which in the early days the medicine men attempted to drive out with their wild caperings and toneless chants.
It was not until comparatively recent years that the physical and the spiritual were dissociated in the practice of medicine and the theory of the body being a purely chemical formation was accepted.

But in spite of superstitions and ignorance, medicine made some steps in the early years of its known history. China knew in the years before Christ of a preventative inoculation for smallpox.

Indians Knew Value of Oil

Journals and Letters of Early American Explorers Show Aborigines Used Oil Springs for Various Purposes and Allments.

Albany, N. Y., July 13 (AP).—Three hundred years ago next Monday, Joseph de la Roche D'Aillon, a Recollet Friar pioneering in the Huron country, wrote to a friend in France an account of his visit to the country occupied by the Neutral Indians, whose lands lay between the Hurons and the Iroquois in Western New York and Ontario.

"They have squashes, beans and vegetables in abundance," the missionary reported, and very good oil which they call Atouronion.

Thus did a French priest, in the midst of his labors among the savages, make the first mention of oil on the American continent.

On July 23 of this year, five days after the tercentenary of D'Aillon's mission, representatives of the petroleum industry and of the University of the State of New York will gather near Cuba, Allegany county, to unveil a tablet at the famous Seneca oil spring, popularly regarded as the source of the oil mentioned by the Franciscan.

Chris A. Hartnagel, assistant state geologist and a member of the tercentenary celebration committee, has made an exhaustive study of the old records bearing on the spring. Mention of the pool, now held in perpetuity by the Indians who have revered it for uncounted centuries, appears several times in the early history of New York. Mr. Hartnagel found. After D'Aillon's direct reference of July 18, 1627, it was next mentioned by the Jesuit Jaul le Jeune in 1656. By 1721 it had been visited by another missionary-explorer, the elder Joncaire, and in 1767 some of its oil was sent to Sir William Johnson for treating an old wound. Thirty years later the spring was permanently reserved to the Senecas in the Treaty of Big Tree.

Indian Meaning Is "How Much".

"It is interesting, to note," Mr. Hartnagel said in commenting today on his researches into the history of petroleum in America, "that the Indian word Atouronion is said to mean not 'oil' but 'much'; or 'how much is there of it?' We who know the extent of the oil industry today must agree that the old Seneca philologists could not have chosen a better word.

"While our annual production of petroleum has soared in value far past the billion mark, the Seneca oil spring has remained neglected in the midst of woods and thickets, in very much the same wild state in which the Indians knew it 300 years ago. Now, however, it is to be suitably marked by the New York State Oil Producers' Association and by the Education Department for its story is the first chapter in the development of our petroleum industry.

"Father D'Aillon's brief reference is without doubt the first mention of petroleum on this continent. Chronologically, the next reference occurs in Charlevoix' 'Histoire et description generale de la Nouvelle France,' published at Paris in 1744. In describing the characteristics of the Iroquois country in 1646, the author makes the following statement: '... approaching the country of the ancient Eriez, there is a thick, oily stagnant water, which takes fire like brandy.'

Water "Ignites Like Brandy".

"A very similar mention is found in the Jesuit Relations for 1656, edited by Father Paul le Jeune: 'as one approaches nearer to the country of the Cats (Eriez)', he wrote, 'one finds heavy and thick black water which ignites like brandy, and boils up in bubbles of flame where fire is applied to it. It is, moreover, so oily that all our savages use it to anoint and grease their heads and their bodies.'

"In the next reference to the Cuba oil spring, also by Charlevoix in a letter written on May 19, 1721, its location emerges very definitely. The writer explains that he himself was not an eyewitness of the territory described, but that it was told him by Thomas Joncaire. He begins with a description of the Genesee:

"The course of this river is a hundred leagues," he wrote, "and after you have sailed up sixty leagues on it, you have no more than to make over land, turning towards the right, to arrive at the Ohio, otherwise La Belle Riviere. The place where you arrive at is called Ganos (which in the Iroquois tongue signifies oil or liquid grease) where, an officer worthy of credit assures me he saw a fountain, the water of which resembles oil, and has the taste of iron. He added that a little farther there is another of exactly the same kind, and that the Indians make use of its waters to mitigate all kinds of pains."

"Joncaire's life was lived in the Seneca territory, and the accuracy of his location of the Cuba oil spring and its comparative nearness to the Pennsylvania spring in Verango county show that he knew the country well at the time.

Johnson Gets Oil for Wound.

"In the journal of Normand MacLeod, in the Sir William Johnson papers for 1767, we find an interesting account of how a sample of oil from the water of a small lake was sent to the famous Indian agent. Sir William was at Saratoga Springs nursing an old wound. MacLeod dispatched his gift by messenger from Niagara Falls on October 25, 1767, with the following letter, which incidentally has never been published:

"Sorry to hear that the famous springs you have been at, has not been of much service to you. I send you by the Bearer Daddy Farrell, a bottle which contains a sort of Oyl taken off the surface of a small lake near the Caladeon Castle. The Indians have great faith in it for performing all manner of Cures; it is very penetrating, so much so, that if you rub a little of it on the back of your hand when going to bed, in the morning you will find it on the inside of it. It is a fine cure for all green wounds, for all Rheumatick pains, &c., &c., &c. It can also be taken inwardly and a small quantity of it makes a good purgative. I dare say before you have it long you will find out more of its virtues if it has any. I shall therefore say no more about it only I sincerely wish it may be of service to you should you choose to try it. We call it Ash, cu, shang's Oyl, that being the name of the person that brought it to this place."

Cornplanter's Oil Spring.

"The story of the springs now shifts to Big Tree and the summer of 1797. Indians were assembling from all the Six Nations to debate the sale of their lands to the whites. The preemptive right to the territory of what is now New York lying beyond the Genesee had been purchased from Massachusetts by Robert Morris and he in turn had sold it to the Holland Land Company with the understanding that he would first extinguish the Indian title.

"Thomas Morris represented his father and commissioners for the United States and for Massachusetts were present in the interests of the Indians. Cornplanter and his half-brother Blacksnake were there. Red Jacket, Farmer's Brother, Young King and many others.

"After long and solemn deliberation the treaty was signed on September 15, the Indians reserving ten separate tracts of land embracing 337 square miles. It was observed by Blacksnake and Red Jacket when the treaty was ready that the Cuba Oil spring land which was so greatly prized by the Senecas was not included in the reservations. According to Blacksnake's testimony years later, the matter was called to Morris's attention and he thereupon wrote a paper excepting the oil spring, and gave it to Cornplanter. The Senecas thereafter continued to claim and use a tract on which the spring is located, feeling secure in their possession.

Testified When 114 Years Old.

"As the treaty finally emerged, however, Morris's notation of the oil spring reservation was not included, and it was not until 1856 that ejectment proceedings against the whites, who claimed the oil spring land, were finally decided in favor of the Senecas, on Blacksnake's evidence. The Indian at this time was 114 years old. Lying upon his bed he swore to his statement that Morris had excepted the spring lands, and he finally produced an old map which showed that the Cuba reservation had been included in the lands allotted to his people.

"There the controversy ended, and the spring, by treaty between the United States and the Six Nations, will remain forever in the possession of the Senecas."

Great Ones of Earth Not Always Imperial

I have met royalties, informally and formally, and always as a simple citizen socially inclined. They impressed me that they are rather wistful creatures whom no one would ever suspect of royalty without being told. I make one exception, an African, the king of Wallo—and he sent a tremor through me with a single flash of the eye at the instant of his complete humiliation.

A very impressive queen called on me in the wilderness somewhere southeast of Lake Eyasi in what was then German East Africa. She came at nightfall with beating drums and a bodyguard of powerful warriors armed with shields and spears. Behind her walked two handmaids, and slaves carrying pots of wild honey and ground nuts as gifts for my saksaks. This lady was a genuine queen and respected and obeyed as such. But she was rather fat, and waddled as she walked, and her only garment was a single string of blue beads hanging about her creased hips. She was as coy in our interview as a playful spinster.

I have in my possession a beautiful little gold watch presented to me by an authentic princess of distinguished royalty. There is no doubt that among those who know her she is one of the most beloved bearers of title in Europe; yet at that time she was seriously considering abandoning her title, since it was an embarrassing impediment to travel.—William A. Anderson, in Adventure Magazine.

Their Occupation

"What is going on here?" asked a visitor in Petunia. "I have noticed quite a number of young men sneaking around corners, peering into windows, hiding behind ash barrels, measuring places on the ground, remarking 'Hist!' and the like."

"Them's graduates of a College of Detection, up to Kay See, and they are trying to detect crime," replied Constable Slackpitter, the well-known sleuth. "But as long as they don't do anything but try to detect, I can't very well arrest 'em."—Kansas City Star.
